

Observation Decks, Brasil

Located 170 kilometers from Florianópolis, Urubici sits in the Santa Catarina mountains. In addition to the prospect of seeing snow, the area is renowned for its beautiful waterfalls, spectacular perspectives, natural wonders, exciting outdoor activities, and other attractions.

ALTOS DO CORVO BRANCO:

Altos do Corvo Branco is more than just one viewpoint. It's a complex of five viewpoints, two of which feature glass surfaces. It also has infinity swings with mountain views, and a café. Observation Decks 1 and 2 are glass observation decks that offer breathtaking views of the surrounding mountains, Canoas river valley, and Serra do Corvo Branco. These two are the most popular due to their clear glass surfaces and panoramic views.

The Observation Decks 3, 4, and 5 are accessible via a bus that runs approximately every 15 to 20 minutes. These vantage points provide amazing views of Morro da Igreja and Morro da Piramide, a peak built like a pyramid. On days with clear skies, it is possible to glimpse the shoreline from these vantage points. Due to its superior post-break performance and high transparency, laminated glass was utilized for the glass floor and handrails.

Owner: @altoscorvobranco

Architect: @dinahnazariarquitectura

Structural Engineer: @rcm_engenharia and @allgreenprojetos

Systems: @qrailing / @qrailingbrasil

Laminated glass supplier: @unividrosvidroscurvos and @cebracevidros

Interlayer: SentryGlas®

Pictures courtesy of: @siderproducoesvisuais

#kuraray #sentryglas #trosifol #architecture #architecturephotography #architecturelovers #architect #architectural #architects #architecture #architecturephotography #architecturelovers #architect
#architectureporn #architectural #architects #interiorarchitecture #architecture_hunter
#modernarchitecture #visualarchitects #architecturedesign #architecturelover #architecturestudent
#architectures #lookingup_architecture #landscapearchitecture #architecturalphotography